Horizon Walker: Ranger Subclass

Guard the Borders Between Worlds

Horizon Walkers guard the world against threats from beyond it. Wherever the boundaries between planes wear thin, these Rangers keep watch, hunting the Aberrations, Fiends, and other otherworldly creatures that slip through. A Horizon Walker learns to tear open Rifts in reality itself, striking foes from one place while standing in another, and in time can cast their quarry out of the world entirely.

Level 3: Horizon Walker Spells

When you reach a Ranger level specified in the Horizon Walker Spells table, you thereafter always have the listed spells prepared.

Horizon Walker Spells

Ranger Level	Spells
3	Protection from Evil and Good
5	Misty Step
9	Haste
13	Banishment
17	Teleportation Circle

Level 3: Planar Rift

Whenever you cast Hunter's Mark or use it to mark a new target, you can also tear open a Rift: a shimmering 5-foot-radius Sphere in an unoccupied space within 10 feet of the marked creature. The Rift doesn't occupy its space and lasts for 1 minute, or until you open another one. You can have only one Rift open at a time.

While your Rift is open, once on each of your turns you can force a creature of your choice within 10 feet of the Rift to take 1d6 Force damage. This damage increases to 2d6 when you reach Ranger level 11 and 3d6 when you reach Ranger level 17.

Level 3: Planar Warden

You stand watch at the borders between worlds, and the tears you open bind those who would slip across them.

Otherworldly Sense. As a Magic action, you open your awareness to the planes. Until the end of your next turn, you know the location of any Aberration, Celestial, Elemental, Fey, or Fiend within 60 feet of yourself, and you know the direction of the nearest planar portal within 1 mile of yourself.

You can take this magic action a number of times equal to your Wisdom modifier (minimum of once) and regain all expended uses when you finish a short or long rest.

Planar Anchor. While your Rift is open, creatures of your choice within 10 feet of it can't teleport or leave their current plane of existence, unless they do so through your Rifts.

Level 7: Planar Strike

Your weapon carries the pull of distant planes, letting you strike from one place and stand in another.

When you hit a creature with an attack roll using a weapon, you can make the attack a Planar Strike. A Planar Strike deals Force damage instead of its normal damage type, and you can activate the Push or Slow mastery property with it in addition to a different mastery property you're using with that weapon.

Each time you use this feature, you can teleport up to 10 feet to an unoccupied space you can see.

Level 11: Paired Rift

Your Rifts are no longer lone wounds in the world; each one now opens onto the other.

You can now have two Rifts open at a time; creating a third closes the oldest.

Alternatively, you can take the Magic action to open a Rift in an unoccupied space you can see within 30 feet of yourself. You can take this Magic action a number of times equal to your Wisdom modifier (minimum of once), and you regain all expended uses when you finish a Long Rest.

While your two Rifts are within 60 feet of each other, you can send creatures through them. When a Large or smaller creature you can see enters a space within 10 feet of one of your Rifts or starts its turn there, you can take a Reaction to teleport it to an unoccupied space within your other Rift. An unwilling creature can make a Charisma saving throw against your spell save DC, and it isn't teleported on a successful save.

Level 15: Planar Exile

You can cast your quarry out of the world entirely, leaving it lost between planes until your Rift spits it back out.

When the target of your Hunter's Mark fails the Charisma saving throw against your Paired Rift, you can banish it instead of teleporting it. Until the start of your next turn, the creature vanishes from the world. When it returns, it appears in an unoccupied space of your choice within 5 feet of one of your Rifts and takes Force damage equal to your Planar Rift damage.

Once you banish a creature in this way, you can't banish that creature again until the end of your next turn.
